d Not shown to avoid disclosure of information about specific taxpayers. However, the data are included in the appropriate totals.

* Data should be used with caution because of the small number of sample returns on which they were based.

[1] Adjustments to foreign-source taxable income include allocations of current-year U.S.-source losses and recapture of foreign losses, as well as other adjustments. These adjustments (reported on Schedule J) affect the numerator of the limitation fraction used to compute the foreign tax credit.

[2] Equals each industry's foreign tax credit divided by the total foreign tax credit claimed for all industries.

Note: Details may not add to totals because of rounding.
