[1] Generally, an estate files a Federal estate tax return (Form 706) in the year after a decedent's death. So, in 2021, most returns were filed for deaths that occurred in 2020, for which the filing threshold was $11.58 million of gross estate. Because of filing extensions, however, some returns were filed in 2021 for deaths that occurred prior to 2020, for which filing thresholds were lower. There are also a small number of returns filed for deaths that occurred in 2021, for which the filing threshold was $11.70 million.

So, in 2012, most returns were filed for deaths that occurred in 2011, for which the filing threshold was $5 million. Because of filing extensions, however, some returns were filed in 2012 for deaths that occurred prior to 2011, for which filing thresholds were lower. The number of returns filed for deaths in 2010 was reduced by a provision in the tax law that enabled estates to opt out of the estate tax system and instead file Form 8939, Allocation of Increase in Basis for Property Acquired From a Decedent.

[1]Generally, an estate files a Federal estate tax return (Form 706) in the year after a decedent's death. However, the estate tax was repealed temporarily for 2010 before being reinstated with the passage of the Tax Relief, Unemployment Insurance Reauthorization and Job Creation Act in December 2010. The law, which was retroactive for all 2010 decedents, raised the estate tax exemption level to $5.0 million and also allowed estates to opt out of the estate tax system and instead file Form 8939, Allocation of Increase in Basis for Property Acquired From a Decedent. These tax law changes, combined with extended filing deadlines for 2010 returns, resulted in relatively few estate tax returns being filed for 2010 decedents during 2011. Therefore, this table is not comparable to prior filing year estate tax tables.

[1] The majority of estates file Federal estate tax returns (Form 706) in the year after a decedent's death. So, in 2010, most returns were filed for deaths that occurred in 2009, for which the filing threshold was $3.5 million. Because of filing extensions, however, some returns were filed in 2010 for deaths that occurred prior to 2009, for which filing thresholds may have been lower.

[1] The majority of estates file Federal estate tax returns (Form 706) in the year after a decedent's death. So, in 2009, most returns were filed for deaths that occurred in 2008, for which the filing threshold was $2.0 million. Because of filing extensions, however, some returns were filed in 2009 for deaths that occurred prior to 2008, for which filing thresholds may have been lower.

[2] The definition of taxable estate differs for the estates of decedents who died before 2005 due to the replacement of the state death tax credit with the state death tax deduction. The state death tax credit was taken to reduce gross estate tax and was therefore not used to calculate taxable estate. In contrast, the state death tax deduction is subtracted from tentative taxable estate to compute the taxable estate.

[1] The majority of estates file Federal estate tax returns in the year after a decedent's death. So, in 2004, most returns were filed for deaths that occurred in 2003, for which the filing threshold was $1.0 million. Because of filing extensions, however, some returns were filed in 2004 for deaths that occurred prior to 2002, for which the filing thresholds were lower. For deaths that occurred in 2004, the filing threshold was $1.5 million.
